About this piece

Victorian Cast Iron Circular Swivel Windows

Four very good quality Victorian cast iron circular swivel windows with a segmented triangular design. The windows open perfectly with no wear to the pins or frames, and the rebated section fits snugly into place when closed.

They all open a little past centre, then come to a stop, which you can see in images ten and eleven, at the bottom where it's pinned. They have catches to secure them when closed, and eye hooks to open them with a pole; those may need a little refurbishment.

They are ready to build into something, with the external securing extending arms still intact at 1.75 inches, and 17mm glazing bars for the glass or double glazing. Price per window.
