About this piece

Bruce Talbert, attributed. Probably made by Gillows of Lancaster.

A good quality and long, aesthetic movement oak bench with stylized florets to the centre and a row of ebonized turnings to the top with tramline details, the sides with quarter circular supports above and below the seat, on turned legs to the front.

It came with a full length buttoned, red upholstery cushion, which is old, well made and nice and included if required, although I don't have an image of it, it's stored away.
