About this piece

E. W. Godwin, Attr An Anglo-Japanese four drawer writing table. The front legs are identical to the Dromore Castle dining chairs with slightly rounded feet. A compact design, the upper cupboards with horizontal and vertical paper compartments. Ecliptic leaded and glazed section with a velvet back liner 'tucked/pleated to hold notes or letters, flanked by a gallery of long pencil turnings ending in precise square blocks. A leather writing area with a pair of side drawers below to the right with simple ring pull handles and large circular back plates, with an open storage box to the left all set back to allow for more leg room.
