About this piece

By Liberty & Co., a fold-over games and card table in walnut aligned to the Arts and Crafts movement (1880–1910), c.1890s. The top opens to a green baize playing surface. Below, a Moorish-arched apron and a short spindle gallery sit over turned and incised legs joined by a cross stretcher. A central covered well provides tidy storage for cards and counters, combining practical function with the Anglo-Moorish vocabulary Liberty popularised in the late Victorian period.
